SOCIAL JUSTICE CORNER

Third Week of Advent – Gaudete Sunday (Latin for Re-joice!) Await in joyful hope!

John the Baptist came to testify to the light, JESUS! Isaiah’s words were fulfilled when Jesus spoke in the temple: "The spirit of the Lord is upon me. He has sent me to bring glad tidings to the poor, to heal the brokenhearted, to proclaim freedom to the captives..." Do you realize that the spirit of the Lord is upon you and me? We, too, are called to do as Pope Francis declares, "Above all, care for the poor."

In these last weeks of Advent, how might I (and my family) intentionally reach out to an individual who is hungry, sick, elderly, dying or grieving the death of a loved one? I may personally know these persons, or not. Be alert! Look for them, do not quench the Spirit in bringing Christ’s light and hope!

CHRISTMAS EVE -CHRISTMAS DAY

We are still in need of more help for Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. All Liturgical Ministers please see the sign-up sheet in the Main Sacristy to see where you can help. We are in need of altar servers and ushers especially.

Come and see the goodies that the Ladies Guild have baked for this weekends Bake Sale. They will be outside the Community Center on Sunday morning starting after the 7:30 am mass until 12:30 pm.

Third Sunday of Advent

My Dear Friends –

Today is called Gaudete Sunday. The word means Rejoice and its word form is that of a mild command. We are preparing for the exquisite joy of Christ's birth. Our readings today emphasize the kind of generosity that God shows us, that is his unconditional love for us, the same kind of love he wants us to show one another and in many ways what this season of preparation is all about.

The first reading from Isaiah is one of the happiest readings we will encounter in scripture. It is full of joy and hope. Written at the end of the Babylonian captivity it assures the Hebrews that their God has not forgotten them. He will free them, clothe them, feed them and give them justice. They will receive glad tidings that will make them very happy. To make it even better, the Hebrews do not have to earn this good time. They just have to act in a manner that will allow their God to give it to them gratis. Who could ask for anything more?

The magnanimity of God's gift to his people is repeated in the psalm reading, which is the prayer of Mary that has come to be known as the Magnificat. The main point here is that because Mary let God do what he wanted to do in her life, he has raised her to a glory beyond her wildest expectations. That is all she had to do, just let God in. Moreover, Mary does not stop here. She says the same generosity God showed her is available to all of us just so long as we let God enter into our lives like she did in to hers.

Paul tells us how to make sure we are capable of accepting God into our lives. He tells us to pray, to be grateful, to rejoice, to be open to the Spirit, to do good and to avoid evil. Then God will make us "perfectly holy." We do not make ourselves holy. God does simply because we take the steps to be open to Him.

Now comes the Gospel written about 100 AD and at a time when most of Jesus' contemporaries are dead. John the Evangelist is writing to a Christian audience that is predominately Gentile. During this early time there were still disciples of John the Baptist who thought of him as the Messiah. After all, even Jesus said he was the greatest person living on earth and the non-believing Jews recognized him as a priest of their own and a prophet in his own right. Therefore, it is not surprising that some people in the early, formative years of our Faith would see John as the messiah.

The Jews simply could not understand what the Baptist, one of their own priests was doing. He was baptizing Jews, something never done to a Jew but only to a gentile about to become a Jew – sort of like us today baptizing only those who are not Christian. The Baptist tells them they will never understand. They do not recognize Christ among them. They are not open to God as was Mary, as was Paul's community or even as the Hebrews of Isaiah were. The author leaves no doubt in anyone's mind that the Baptist refuses to be considered the Messiah and goes so far as to say he is not even worthy to be a slave to him when he says he cannot unloose the strap of his sandal.

So what can we take away from these readings? We can be like the Jews of the Gospel closed to the love of God, or we can become like Mary and Paul's disciples, becoming open to God through prayer, rejoicing, enjoying one another, helping one another and showing one another our generosity as we spread the glad tidings of our faith to our families, to our friends, to strangers and dare I say even to our enemies. After all, Jesus did.

SCHOOL DAYS

Third Sunday of Advent

We wish the 6th graders a safe journey as they travel to Outdoor Science School this week! They will leave on Tuesday for the Koinonia Conference Center and return on Friday.

Last week's "novena" was a success with the students and families making generous donations to several local charities.

Classes will dismiss at noon on Friday, December 19. Christmas break will end on January 5. The school students and staff wish all parishioners a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.
